A BILL OF ASSERTIVE RIGHTS

1. You have the right to judge your own behavior, thoughts, and emotions, and to take responsibility for their initiation and consequences upon yourself.
2. You have the right to offer no reasons or excuses for justifying your own behavior.
3. You have the right to judge if you are responsible for finding solutions to other people’s problems.
4. You have the right to change your mind.
5. You have the right to make mistakes—and be responsible for them.
6. You have the right to say, “I don’t know.”
7. You have the right to be independent of the goodwill of others before coping with them.
8. You have the right to be illogical in making decisions.
9. You have the right to say, “I don’t understand.”
10. You have the right to say, “I don’t care.”

YOU HAVE THE RIGHT TO SAY NO WITHOUT FEELING GUILTY.
NON-ASSERTIVE BEHAVIOR

Failing to stand up for one's rights either by failing to express feelings or preferences or by allowing another person to infringe upon one's rights.

ASSERTIVE BEHAVIOR

Standing up for one's rights by expressing one's thoughts and feelings in a direct, honest, and appropriate fashion without denying others' rights.

AGGRESSIVE BEHAVIOR

Standing up for one's rights in such a way that violates the rights of others or demeans the other person.

GENERAL MODEL:

“I...[describe feelings, reactions] when you...[describe behavior] because then I...[describe effect]. I would rather you...[give alternate behavior].”

ASSERTIVENESS IS A SKILL THAT IS DEVELOPED WITH PRACTICE

Demonstrate assertive body language, which includes:
- direct eye contact, erect body posture, clear and audible speech
- use of gestures and facial expressions for emphasis

Use descriptive—not labeling—words to point out the behavior of others:
- “You have been borrowing my clothes without my permission” rather than “You clothes stealer!”

Express your feelings and experiences caused by the behavior:
- “I feel upset when you eat my food in the refrigerator because then I can’t plan ahead and eat what I would like.”

Give an alternative behavior:
- “I would like for you to ask me in advance before you eat my food.”

Each situation is unique. Ask yourself:
- Am I treating this other person as if I recognize they are a child of God?
- What would I like to have happen? How possible is this goal?
- What rights does the other person have in this situation?
- What obstacles are there to the person making the behavior change?
- Am I comfortable with my rights to deal with this situation assertively?
