

LETOURNEAU PARENT Guide

Dear Parents,

Welcome to the LeTourneau family! We're thrilled that you've chosen to send your student to LeTourneau and look forward to investing in your family's life.

The Alumni & Parent Relations team seeks to be a real resource to you throughout your student's college experience. We've collected some campus information to share with you in this new Parent Guide and know it will likely spark additional thoughts and questions so don't hesitate to ask. Please share any ideas and insights you have anytime, we love to hear from you! This Parent Guide (with links!) is also online at letu.edu/parents.

Our thanks,

LeTourneau Alumni & Parent Relations Team

ACADEMIC Resources

The LeTourneau Achievement Center promotes student success by providing supportive resources for both online and on-ground students looking to improve their learning skills and increase their academic success.

Academic resources available to your student include:

- ◆ Academic Intervention and Mentoring (AIM) provides individual support to our targeted first-year students as they make their transition to university academics.
- ◆ Athletic Study Hall is provided for all student-athletes.
- ◆ Learning Strategies Consultations assist students who experience general academic difficulty with note-taking, test-taking, time management, etc.
- ◆ Learning Strategies Resources on a variety of topics related to student learning are available in the Achievement Center.
- ◆ Math Lab provides drop-in tutoring services for a wide range of math courses from algebra to calculus and differential equations.
- ◆ Peer Advisors are experienced student leaders who have demonstrated academic and community success.
- ◆ Supplemental Instruction (SI) is a learning program designed to support students who are enrolled in challenging courses such as chemistry, physics, dynamics and more.
- ◆ Tutoring is available for many classes such as history, English, Bible and more.
- ◆ Writing Center provides writing tutoring on a drop-in basis.

Please note that the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) prevents the University from discussing a student's grades or discipline records. Students must come to university staff directly to discuss these topics.

The Hive offers Grab-n-Go salads & sandwiches, a full-service taqueria, brick-oven pizza, grill and ice cream.

Common Grounds offers coffee, tea & espresso as well as fresh pastries, muffins, cookies and bottled drinks.

MORE OPTIONS

There are 4 meal plan options and “Flex Money” that can be used in all 3 campus food areas. Flex money can be added in the Corner Café - just talk to a manager.

Students with special food needs will be accommodated by the Bon Appetit team.

TRANSITION Tips

Think about your parting words.

The closing words between parents and children are crucial. Whatever wisdom you have to offer, whether it is “I love you,” “I’m behind you,” or “I’m proud of you,” say it. Your child will remember your words and hold on to them.

Be prepared for new habits.

Your child will come home from college with a new set of habits, particularly when it comes to food and sleep. When my daughter came home for the first time she decided to call her friend at 10:30 pm. When I expressed surprise, she said, “Oh, I know it’s early, but I want to catch her before she makes plans with someone else.”

Don’t change their room.

Your student’s room is “home base” – try not to change it very much during the first semester away. Freshmen in particular can go through some very difficult times passing exams, establishing new friendships, surviving in a setting where they are not “top dog” and often fearing that admissions has made a mistake – that they do not really belong at college. Give them a safe haven.

If there’s a problem, “move like your feet are stuck in molasses.”

The temptation is to intervene when a child calls home with a problem. Remember that many resources and safety nets exist at college to help them cope with various situations. Express support, but give your children time to solve their own problems – it will ultimately benefit them.

Don’t expect the same grades that your students got in high school.

Few students make it through a challenging and varied college curriculum with a perfect 4.0. Early grades may be lower than you expect but later ones should be better. Your child needs time and experience to learn how to be a college student. Be patient and understanding.

Hold out for junior year.

Freshmen tend to highlight everything in their textbooks because everything seems important. Sophomores highlight several lines on a page as they begin to zero in on the heart of the matter. Juniors highlight a line here or there. Seniors sometimes highlight nothing, they just write critical comments in the margin and cite other sources of reference. By junior year you will realize you’re dealing with an expanded and exciting mind. Be patient in waiting to see the effects of the college experience.

Children in college don’t become “college students” overnight.

They start out as high school students at college. It takes time to learn how to be a college student – how to study, how to eat, how to do laundry, how to play, how to handle money, etc. Be patient, this process requires about one semester by which time your student will have studied for and taken major exams, written papers, given in-class reports, messed up, done well, drunk gallons of coffee, eaten uncountable pizzas and attended a variety of college events.

Let your child handle problems on their own unless...

Parents know their children better than anyone else and if they hear what I call “that voice” from their children (the voice that’s different from ordinary complaining, the voice that really means the child is in trouble) they should call the school. Don’t come running, just call the college. Good places to start would be the office of the Dean of Students or perhaps the dorm’s Resident Director or RA. No matter who is called, the relevant people will be notified and help will be set into motion. College professionals are very experienced in dealing with these situations. You encourage your children and support them. Express confidence in their ability to deal with what’s going on and wait for them to work things out.

Quick ResLife Facts

- ◆ Each hall floor is assigned an upper-classman who serves as the Resident Assistant (RA) and helps develop each floor's spiritual, academic and social growth. A professional staff supervises the RA's and provides both programming and counseling for students in that hall.
- ◆ Laundry facilities: South, Gilbert, Thomas, & Davis Halls have laundry facilities on the first floor and Tyler Hall's is on the north side of the building. Residents of The Quad and Trinity Halls (Mabee, (Pennsylvania, Evelyn LeTourneau) share a large laundromat east of Trinity Halls. Married & Village Apartments use laundry facilities in the Village Center's living area. Cost is 75 cents to wash and 75 cents to dry—bring quarters!
- ◆ All hall mattresses require twin XL sheets and bedding.
- ◆ Countertop ovens/grills, hot plates or electric frying pans aren't permitted in individual rooms. Students may bring a small refrigerator and microwave.
- ◆ Students must complete Vehicle Registration and bring proof of liability insurance to obtain a campus parking sticker.
- ◆ Residence halls are open for all breaks during the semester (Fall Break, Thanksgiving, Easter, Spring Break, etc.). The Corner Café is open during all breaks except Spring Break.
- ◆ Students aren't allowed to build lofts or shelving systems. There are bookshelves and small shelving units that meet university guidelines (the ResLife team can answer any questions!)
- ◆ White plasi-tac, 3M Brand & Command Strips or Mavalus Brand dorm & teacher's tape are best for hanging posters/decorations.
- ◆ Bicycles must be kept outside the residence hall. It is recommended that students lock their bikes while not in use.
- ◆ No candles or open flames are allowed at any time. Flameless alternatives such as wax melts and oil diffusers are fine!
