Well, our decoder interns have done it again. They used defective glue when attaching the letters to the message template and more than half the letters fell straight down. We need your help to put the letters back in place. Some columns are easy with only one letter fallen. In other places the letters that didn't fall from the word will give you a clue. Then study the two and three blank words. Find letters which will make reasonable words. It's a good idea to cross off the letters as you use them. When you figure it out, pass the message along to your class leader.
