We have letters down ... that windstorm last night did a number on this billboard. We need workers from your class to get these letters back in place. Oddly enough they all fell straight down, but not in order from the column. You'll need to focus first on columns with a single letter missing. Then look at two and three-letter words and find which letters make reasonable words. Cars will be coming past this billboard soon, so we need to get the message back in place.
