ENGINEERING WORLD HEALTH

Engineering World Health

4819 Emperor Blvd,

Suite 400

Durham, NC 27703

<https://www.ewh.org/>

From their website:

"Engineering World Health engages students and young professionals in STEM to use their engineering skills to improve global health. Through our Institute programs, EWH offers eye-opening, life-changing experiences that enable participants to provide meaningful service to hospitals in low-income countries.

EWB has also supported workforce training programs in Asia, Africa and Latin America for biomedical engineering technicians and instructors. Working in partnership with local hospitals, educational institutions, and governments, EWH strives to create sustainable solutions and strengthen local capacity to repair critical medical equipment now and in the future.

Through University Chapters and STEM outreach initiatives, EWH is building a global community of like-minded students and engineers."
